► Golfing in North Aberdeenshire

Morning: Cruden Bay Golf Club

Cruden Bay is a traditional Scottish Links golf course, originally designed by Tom Morris and Archie Simpson.

A warm and welcoming club that caters for both members and visiting golfers across the globe, their experienced staff and first class bar will ensure that your day playing golf in Aberdeenshire will be one to remember.

Cruden Bay creates unique challenges demanding the skills of power, placement and fine judgement upon the discerning golfer.

Afternoon: Lunch and a round of Golf at Meldrum House

Set amidst beautiful countryside, the 4 Star Meldrum House Country Hotel & Golf Course offers unrivalled quality and traditional Scottish hotel luxury with modern facilities.

Meldrum House Golf Course is one of only a few luxury private golf clubs in Scotland measuring more than 7,000 yards. The hand-cut greens, cross-cut fairways and hand weeding give the course its immaculate finish and mature woodland backdrop, meticulous landscaping and abundant wildlife make it a golf experience like no other. Combined, they present an enjoyable and challenging course for any golfer. You'll find everything you need to enjoy and perfect your game, including a world-class golf academy and teaching centre.

After dinner or a round of golf relax and enjoy a drink in the comfortable Cave Bar in the Manor House.

McDonald Golf Club

McDonald Golf Club, Ellon is set in the heart of Aberdeenshire countryside, 16 miles north of Aberdeen, this scenic eighteen hole golf course provides a memorable golfing experience for all standards of golfer.

The parkland course is named after its benefactor Sir James McDonald who, in 1926, gifted the old woodlands to the people of Ellon. The original nine hole course winds its way through this magnificent forest with its stately trees and beautiful rhododendron bushes. The well established first nine has a natural stream that twists and turns across the course and features on almost every hole.

Oldmeldrum Golf Club

Oldmeldrum is an historic golf club: the game has been played here for over 125 years. However, its outlook is modern and, here, you will find all the facilities you would expect of a thriving, 21st century golfing venue.

For golfers, there are few more breathtaking sights - in summer or winter - than the distant, majestic, eastern flank of Bennachie, as you send a drive straight towards it from Oldmeldrum's elevated 6th tee.
